BACKGROUND & DESCRIPTION:

STATUS NOTE:

Effective Friday, March 31, 2017 Jim French Productions has ceased producing new shows.

Starting in July 2017, new episodes of The Adventures of Harry Nile and The Further Adventures of Sherlock Holmes are being produced on a less frequent basis. These episodes will only be broadcast on Seattle radio station KIXI and they will be available for listening on the Imagination Theatre YouTube channel.

SERIES BACKGROUND & DESCRIPTION:

The Adventures Of Dameron was the second radio series created, written, and produced by Jim French for radio station KVI in Seattle, WA. The first series was the short-run anthology Tower Playhouse; the third was Crisis. At the time, KVI was part of the Golden West Radio Network: KMPC - Los Angeles, KSFO - San Francisco, KEX - Portland, and KVI - Seattle. The Golden West Radio Network was owned by radio's singing cowboy, Gene Autry.

Roy Dameron, played by Robert E. Lee Hardwick, was a high-priced, globe-trotting troubleshooter. Emile St. Clair, played by Douglas Young, was Dameron's partner. He was variously described as a cook or chef, chemist, and general factotum.

The basic opening hook line for the series was:

"KVI and the Golden West Radio Network present The Adventures Of Dameron. Dameron: his home - the streets of the world; his profession - the jobs nobody else can do. Dameron goes anywhere, solves any problem - for a price."

Most The Adventures Of Dameron episodes followed typical detective show plots - masquerading as someone else or solving or preventing a crime. However, the plot lines usually have interesting and unusual twists. In one episode, Dameron must stop the bombing of the Vietnam War Peace Talks in Paris with the help of several persons possessing exceptional Extra Sensory Perception powers who were portraying their favorite movie stars from the 1940's.

Dameron used his wits to solve his cases, he didn't carry or even own a gun. He did carry something that was very unusual for the early 1970's: a portable wireless telephone in a briefcase.

Less than three years after the end of The Adventures Of Dameron, Jim French went on to create another detective series: the long-running The Adventures Of Harry Nile.

NOTE:

Audition/Pilot Show

The initial appearance of the Dameron and Emile characters was in the episode 002, "A Spark of the Sun," of the Tower Playhouse series. In that episode, which aired on 08/01/1972, Dameron was a sailor/soldier of fortune; Emile was a café owner who was involved in espionage. Just a few weeks later The Adventures Of Dameron became a series.

THE STARS:

Robert E. Lee Hardwick, who played Roy Dameron, was a popular Seattle radio personality from the late 1950's until the early-1990's. He was perhaps best known to decades of Seattle listeners for such stunts as riding a bronco at a rodeo, climbing Mount Kilimanjaro in Africa, swimming across Puget Sound, and riding a jet ski over 700 miles from southern Alaska to Seattle. Hardwick was named Billboard Magazine's Radio Personality of the Year in 1979. Robert E. Lee Hardwick died on June 5, 1992.

Douglas Young, who played Emile St. Clair, is an actor who appeared on many series during the Golden Age of Radio including The Anderson Family, Aunt Mary, Cisco Kid, The Diary Of Fate, Dr. Christian, Lux Radio Theatre, Red Ryder, Sherlock Holmes, Stars Over Hollywood, The Unexpected, and The Whistler. He had roles in nearly 150 Jim French productions. Doug has a great facility for doing accents and dialects. In Dameron, Doug usually played other roles in addition to his co-starring role as Emile.

Before moving to Seattle, Doug also did a great deal of cartoon voice work for Hanna-Barbera Studios. He modeled some of his cartoon voices after his favorite character actors. His voice for the character of Doggie Daddy in the Augie Doggie cartoons was patterned after Jimmy Durante. In the Hokey Wolf cartoons, Doug did a character called Ding-A-Ling whose voice emulated Buddy Hackett's.

Douglas "Doug" Young died January 7, 2018 at age 98. Between July, 1972 and May, 2008, Doug appeared on 145 Jim French Productions shows. Only 8 out of the the more than 500 actors who appeared in Jim French show had more appearances than Doug Young.

NEW PRODUCTIONS OF PREVIOUS SCRIPTS:

Several of The Adventures Of Dameron scripts provided the basis for episodes of other Jim French series.

"The Short Sweet Life Of Lee Chow Soon" was extensively reworked for the first episode of the series Call Simon Walker, "You Should Live So Long," which initially aired on Imagination Theatre 05/19/2002. The script has some plot line similarities to The Adventures Of Dameron script, but had different characters.

"Why Would Anyone Want To Kill A Nice Guy Like Pete?"
was reworked for The Adventures of Harry Nile episode "The Pete Lambert Case" which first aired on Imagination Theatre 01/20/2002.

"The Rapture Of Mrs. Parrington" served as the foundation for the second episode of the Series Call Simon Walker, "Heaven Doesn't Take Plastic," which initially aired on Imagination Theatre 11/24/2002. The script has some plot line similarities to The Adventures Of Dameron script, but had different characters.

The Berryman Chamber was modified for the Kincaid, The Strangeseeker episode "Gravity" which first aired on Imagination Theatre 07/13/2003. The plot line is quite similar to The Adventures Of Dameron script, but had different characters and a modified plot line.

"Don't Point At Me, You're Loaded" served as the foundation for The Adventures Of Harry Nile episode, "A Weekend In Heaven" which initially aired on Imagination Theatre 01/30/2011. The script has some plot line similarities to The Adventures Of Dameron script, but had different characters and locales and significant changes in dialog.
